You teach me the meaning of words. When you say "sit" I sit. When you say "lay down", that is what I do.

So is English not your first language? If I treated the meaning of words the way you do, when you said "sit" I might go after the frisbee. When you say "lay down" I might stand up.

Why do I say this? Here is my number one example of your misuse of language:

What you refer to as being "fixed" was not "broken" -in fact, it was once working and you "broke" it. You are using words in exact opposition to their real that has been a real sore point with me!

Just saying.....
